General Counsel

[Redacted]

25X1

- In a recent decision, U.S. v. Belfield, a panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia upheld the constitutionality of the provisions of the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act which allow a court to make an ex parte, in camera determination of the legality of electronic surveillance conducted pursuant to the Act. The decision of the Court was reached after two defendants, charged with the murder and other related offenses in connection with the assassination of Ali Tabatabai, raised the constitutional question.
